

()

Title: Screenplay - The Tallgrass Sea Creature

1. EXT. WINDY SEASIDE ROAD - DAY

Dallas (40s) and his son Mac (10) drive along a winding seaside road in Southern New England. The coastline is rugged, with the Atlantic waves crashing against the rocks. An afternoon storm looms on the horizon, dark clouds rolling in.

2. EXT. NEW HOUSE - SOUTHERN CONNECTICUT COAST - DAY

Dallas signs papers on a clipboard handed to him by a Mover. The Movers begin unloading boxes from the truck. A Surveyor arrives and starts inspecting the property.

3. EXT. SOUTHERN NEW ENGLAND ROADS - DAY

The duo drives through Southern New England. The landscape is a blend of nautical docks, well-groomed cottages, and middle-class baseball fields. The houses become humbler as they approach their destination—an idyllic cul-de-sac surrounded by marshland, drenched in tall grass.

As they pass through the wealthier neighborhoods of beach bungalows and mansions, Dallas and Mac finally arrive at their new, more modest home in Branford, Connecticut.

4. EXT. NEW HOUSE - BACKYARD - DAY

Dallas and Mac explore the land around their new house. They are joined by a Plumber, who introduces himself.

PLUMBER

"You gotta watch out for the coyotes around here. They make some sounds at night. You'll hear em. And those raccoons—don't leave your trash out, or they'll rip it to shreds."

Mac listens intently, wide-eyed at the thought of the local wildlife.

5. INT. NEW HOUSE - LIVING ROOM - DAY

The final Movers leave, and Dallas and Mac stand silently in the big open floor plan of their new house, taking it all in.

6. EXT. DRIVEWAY - DAY

Dallas and Mac take various items out of a bucket in the back of their sedan, including a birdhouse and gardening tools. Dallas hesitates, looking somber as he stares at the bucket.

Mac notices and gently takes over, beginning to finish the task without a word.

7. INT. NEW HOUSE - MAC'S ROOM - DUSK

Mac stands by the window, looking out into the dimming light. Fireflies flicker in the distance, their glow reflecting off the tall grass. As the wind rustles the branches, the fireflies' lights resemble the glint of eyes in the darkness.

8. INT. KITCHEN - NIGHT

Dallas carefully plates a fresh avocado chicken finger sandwich. He and Mac sit down to eat, the local weather report playing on the TV in the background.

The screen shows a Doppler radar, tracking the approaching storm as thunder rumbles in the distance, casting a dramatic backdrop over their quiet meal.

FADE OUT.

1. INT. CHURCH - MORNING

The Pastor stands at the pulpit, addressing the congregation. The church is filled with attentive listeners, including Dallas and Mac sitting quietly in a pew.

PASTOR

"In ancient times, the Israelites made sacrifices of all kinds—grain, animals, even blood. But today, we know that the ultimate sacrifice has been made for us. The Paschal Lamb, once and for all."

The sermon concludes. After the service, Dallas and Mac are approached by several curious congregation members. They exchange polite greetings, slightly overwhelmed by the attention.

2. INT. CHURCH FELLOWSHIP HALL - AFTERNOON

Cut to the fellowship lunch. The room is bustling with activity. Dallas and Mac stand awkwardly, each holding a plate of food. They stare at their plates, clearly out of their element.

A friendly MAN in his 50s approaches them, noticing their discomfort.

FRIENDLY MAN

"Hey there, where y'all from?"

DALLAS

"Indiana."

FRIENDLY MAN

"Indiana, huh? Well, welcome to the neighborhood! We're having a BBQ this afternoon, why don't you join us?"

3. EXT. BACKYARD BBQ - AFTERNOON

Dallas and Mac arrive at the BBQ. They struggle to fit in, standing off to the side with their plates. A TALKATIVE NEIGHBOR (40s) notices Dallas and makes his way over, eager to introduce him to everyone.

TALKATIVE NEIGHBOR

"Hey! You must be Indiana - that you?. I'm Marty - good to see ya - Let me introduce you to some folks."

As Tom leads Dallas around, introducing him to various neighbors, Mac notices a group of kids gathered around something on the ground. He edges closer to see what they're looking at.

The kids are crowding around a dead animal. A GIRL (12) turns to a smaller boy and whispers conspiratorially.

GIRL

"We should use it as bait."

Mac recoils slightly, uneasy with the suggestion.

4. INT. BBQ AREA - LATE AFTERNOON

Tom gestures towards a mini fridge with a flyer pinned to it. The flyer reads: "The 23rd Annual Harvest Sea Festival."

TOM

"You see that? My cousin's the one in charge of organizing the whole thing. The Harvest Sea Festival—big deal around here. We do it every year to raise money for the Little League. It's a real hoot. We borrow stage equipment from the big arenas, get some local bands to play... and of course, there's oysters for days. Not as famous as the Oyster Festival, but we hold our own."

Dallas listens politely, nodding along, but his mind seems elsewhere.

5. EXT. BRANFORD STREETS - EARLY EVENING

Dallas and Mac walk home, the sun setting behind them. They pass by the tall beach grass, a little post office, a free library mail post, and some nice homes with even nicer boats docked nearby. They continue past it all, into their corner of the world—a quiet cul-de-sac near a land preserve and a bird sanctuary.

6. INT. NEW HOUSE - MAC'S ROOM - NIGHT

That night, Mac looks out his bedroom window. The fireflies are out again, their soft glow dotting the landscape. The wind begins to pick up, rustling the tall grass outside.

As Mac focuses on the distance, the fireflies' lights start to blur, taking on an eerie resemblance to eyes watching from the darkness.

FADE OUT.

Title: Monday - First Day of School

1. INT. SEDAN - MORNING

Dallas, holding his phone with the latest iOS, follows Google Maps as they drive through town in their old sedan. The car's engine hums steadily as they approach the school. Dallas glances at Mac, who sits quietly in the passenger seat, a mix of nervousness and anticipation on his face.

DALLAS

with a reassuring smile

"You'll be fine, kiddo. Just take it one step at a time."

Mac nods, gripping his backpack tightly as they pull up to the school.

2. EXT. SCHOOL ENTRANCE - MORNING

Mac steps out of the sedan, looking up at the imposing structure of his new school. The sounds of chattering students and the ringing of the school bell fill the air. Dallas watches him from the car, giving a final nod of encouragement before driving off.

3. INT. CLASSROOM - MORNING

Mac enters the classroom, glancing around nervously at the unfamiliar faces. He finds an empty seat and sits down, trying to blend in. The TEACHER, a woman in her early 30s, stands at the front of the room, beginning her introduction.

TEACHER

"Good morning, everyone. Welcome to a new school year. This semester, we'll be exploring some exciting topics—weather patterns, the phases of the moon, and how the tides work."

Mac listens intently, but his eyes occasionally dart around the room, taking in his new surroundings.

4. INT. SCHOOL HALLWAY - AFTERNOON

After class, the students flood into the hallway, heading towards their lockers. Mac walks to his locker, still feeling out of place. As he opens it, MOLLY (11), a girl with a curious demeanor, approaches him. She holds a small, worn photograph in her hand.

MOLLY

quietly, almost conspiratorially
"Hey, new kid. I saw you looking around in class. Thought you might find this interesting."

She hands Mac the photograph. He looks down at it—it's an image of a strange burn mark, blackened and eerie against what looks like the floor of an old building.

Mac stares at the photo, puzzled, as Molly walks away, leaving him with more questions than answers.

FADE OUT.

Title: Tuesday

1. EXT. NEIGHBOR'S BACKYARD - DAY

Dallas and the Neighbor stand by a grill, the smell of sizzling meat filling the air. Nearby, the kids—Mac, Molly, and her brother Asher—wander off to explore.

2. EXT. YARD - DAY

Molly confidently approaches Mac, her brother Asher trailing behind.

MOLLY

"Hey, Mac. This is my brother Asher. He doesn't talk much."

Mac, curious, asks Asher directly.

MAC

"Why don't you talk much?"

Asher just shrugs, and Mac nods in understanding. Molly then turns to Mac.

MOLLY

"I'm Molly, by the way. Want to help us move something?"

MAC

"Okay."

3. EXT. FIELD - DAY

Cut to the three of them straining as they move a giant rock. Beneath it, Molly starts scraping crustaceans off and carefully puts them into a Ziploc bag she had in her pocket.

MOLLY

spinning a yarn

"These crabs are the best. They've been used as bait for ages, by ancient folk even. My dad says they're worth their weight in gold."

Mac listens as Molly talks, clearly captivated by her stories.

4. EXT. BACKYARD - LATE AFTERNOON

The kids regroup. Molly begins to spin more tales.

MOLLY

"We have a secret monster society, you know. Every day, we catch bait fish for my dad. But I've turned it into a game-- and now the whole neighborhood's in on it."

As Molly continues, a strange sound echoes through the air.

The kids freeze for a moment, glancing at each other nervously. From across the yard, Dallas calls out to Mac.

DALLAS

"Mac! Time to come inside!"

Mac hesitates, then follows his father inside. That night, he peers out the window, scanning the tall grass for the familiar flicker of fireflies—wondering if there's more to those glowing eyes.

5. EXT. MAC'S HOUSE - NEXT DAY - MORNING

The next day, Molly arrives outside Mac's house with two other kids—her brother Asher and his best friend, a girl who lives across the street. The crew is on their bikes, silently sizing each other up. They wordlessly agree and head off, riding through the town towards the coast.

6. EXT. BEACHY SUBURBIA - MORNING

The group arrives at a corner of a beachy suburbia. They start to make crab traps along the way, collecting driftwood for a game. Molly and Mac find themselves separated from the group as they wander off ahead.

7. EXT. BEACH - DRIFTWOOD LOG - DAY

They sit on a driftwood log, the waves crashing softly in the distance. After a long silence, Molly speaks up.

MOLLY

"What happened to your mom?"

MAC

"She died a long time ago. She got sick when I was two... and died when I was three."

Beat.

MOLLY

"Why are you here?"

MAC

"My dad got a job."

MOLLY

"What does your dad do?"

MAC

"He does physics and theoretical stuff."

MOLLY

with a small smile

"Great. He would've liked my grandfather. He was into theoretical stuff too. What kind of stuff? Creatures..."

Molly pulls out an old, worn notebook from her backpack.

8. EXT. BEACH - DAY

Molly shows Mac her grandfather's notebook—handwritten notes, weather observations, tidal charts, and a treasure trove of ancient-looking symbols.

MOLLY

"My grandfather kept this. See? The symbols change from harmonious to jagged when the creatures are close."

Mac flips through the pages, captivated.

MAC

"There's more than one type of creature?"

MOLLY

"My grandfather thought the marks were warning signs—when they're about to return. They come to steal in the shadows of the night, warning the other creatures not to interfere, so they can pass into our world... to steal."

MAC

"Steal what?"

MOLLY

"Steal us... and make us into them. They use us to repair their own kind."

Molly's voice drops to a whisper.

MOLLY

"My dad doesn't like to talk about it. He works in real estate now. But my grandfather—he knew things about the local legends that no one else believed."

9. EXT. SANDY SHORELINE - AFTERNOON

The kids walk along the sandy shoreline, staring out at the Long Island Sound. Molly and her brother place some food on a beach of driftwood, something Molly had hidden in her pocket. As they start to leave, a weird sound echoes from the tall grass. Molly quickly snaps a photo with her film camera.

In the distance, Asher waves a tin whistle, signaling to the others. Mac bikes home alone, passing a group of older, more mischievous-looking kids.

10. INT. DALLAS AND MAC'S HOUSE - AFTERNOON

Later that afternoon, Mac returns home to find Dallas silently scraping wood off an old table. Dallas looks up at his son, and soon the two are working together, scraping and sanding in quiet companionship.

As time passes, Mac notices the wind picking up, causing the wind chimes to clatter. The wind suddenly tosses a nearby garbage can, and Mac rushes to stop it from rolling into the street. As he grabs it, he spots a small dark figure lurking in the distance of the tall grass. Mac blinks, and the figure is gone.

11. EXT. NEIGHBORHOOD - NIGHT

A whimper is heard as a thunderstorm approaches. Neighborhood dogs begin to bark. Dallas looks around, trying to locate the source of the disturbance. His eyes drift towards a distant movement in the twilight, focusing on the tall, ominous grass across the street. Fireflies emerge, their glow intensifying as they move closer.

12. INT. LIVING ROOM - NIGHT

That night, Dallas and Mac have dinner in front of the TV. They watch the local weather report, followed by a poorly shot commercial highlighting the Seaside Festival. As they head to bed, a weird sound echoes outside. Both Dallas and Mac pause, looking at each other before peeking out the window, searching for the source of the noise.

FADE OUT.

Title: Wednesday

1. EXT. DRIVEWAY - MORNING

Dallas and Mac head out to the car in the early morning light. Mac, excited, runs ahead to grab the mail while Dallas takes out the trash. Dallas examines the bins, finding no signs of raccoons from the night before. Mac runs towards the mailbox in the distance.

As Mac reaches the mailbox, he notices a small burn mark on the ground near it. It's not large, nor perfectly round, but scattered. He crouches down to examine it more closely as Dallas peers over his shoulder, curious.

2. EXT. NEIGHBOR'S HOUSE - EVENING

Dallas and Mac drive to a neighbor's house for dinner. The atmosphere is warm, the sun setting in the background. Dallas quickly gets engulfed in conversation with Dominic, a talkative neighbor who is friends with the host of the BBQ.

DOMINIC

"My cousin throws an annual charity event every summer. You'd really like him—his daughter is into playing with the sea and all that stuff. You and your son should join us. The kids can play, and we can all hang out."

Dallas nods, trying to keep up with Dominic's energetic chatter, while Mac listens quietly.

3. EXT. FOGGY COAST - NIGHT

Later that night, Mac stands alone by the foggy coast, staring out at the water. The tall grass binds the cliffs and the sea, swaying gently in the night breeze. He scans the grass, looking for the mysterious eyes he's come to fear.

Suddenly, he hears a faint whimper—a distant cry that sounds like an animal in pain, far off in the wilderness. The sounds of the nautical sea engulf him, heightening his fear. Frightened, Mac quickly turns to head back home.

Before he can leave, he's stopped by a group of kids—Molly, Asher, and their friends. Misty, one of the older girls, steps forward.

MISTY

"Mac, go get a shovel."

Mac nods and runs to get the shovel, unsure of what they're planning.

4. EXT. CORNER BEACH - NIGHT

The crew scours the corner beach, searching for evidence of lightning strikes and other burn marks. They find nothing. Molly suggests they head to "the fort."

MAC

"The fort? What fort?"

The kids exchange knowing looks before leading Mac towards their secret hideaway.

5. EXT. THE FORT - NIGHT

The kids flock to their hideaway—a makeshift fort hidden among the tall grass. They begin laying traps made of various forms of food tied to driftwood sticks. Mac arrives with the shovel, and Molly instructs the group on what to do.

MOLLY

"The creature is likely to come from the sea, though my grandfather always said they come from the grass. They come from the sea first, then go into the grass."

JEFFERSON

skeptical

"How could you possibly know that?"

MOLLY

"I read the notes, Jefferson."

A debate ensues among the kids about how the creature would behave on land, how it would move, and how it would scatter about the tall grass.

MISTY

setting up a camera
"Let's see if we can catch something on film."

Molly sets up the camera while the rest of the group prepares the bait, waiting for the thunderstorm to roll in.

6. EXT. THE FORT - NIGHT

The kids gather around the monitor, discussing what kind of monsters might arrive on land and how they might move from the sea to the grass. The conversation turns to Molly's father.

JEFFERSON

"Your dad was just writing those stories to make you laugh. He didn't believe in that stuff."

MOLLY

"No—he actually did. He added humor to them so people would take him seriously. Haven't you a clue?"

7. EXT. NEIGHBOR'S HOUSE - EVENING

As the evening progresses, Mac finds Dallas nodding along to Dominic, who continues to talk endlessly about the upcoming Sea Festival.

DOMINIC

"Are you excited about the Sea
Festival, Mac? It's gonna be great!"

Mac doesn't respond, instead looking out at the weather, sensing something ominous. He goes inside to take out the trash, calling to Dallas that it's time for dinner. Suddenly, a cry echoes from the tall grass—a whimper, like something was attacked.

Dallas looks up from the kitchen window, where he's doing the dishes. He hears the distant cry again, his eyes drawn to the tall, ominous grass across the street. The fireflies begin to emerge, their glow casting an eerie light over the scene.

8. INT. LIVING ROOM - NIGHT

That evening, Mac and Dallas sit down for dinner in front of the TV. The local weather report plays, followed by a poorly shot commercial promoting the upcoming Seaside Festival.

As they prepare to head to bed, another whimper echoes outside, more urgent this time. Both Dallas and Mac pause, exchanging worried glances. They move to the window, peering out into the dark, searching for the source of the sound.

FADE OUT.

Title: Thursday

1. INT. HOUSE - MORNING

Dallas begins to go inside, the sound of the breeze from the Long Island Sound rustling through the trees. He pauses, looking out at the sky before stepping through the door.

2. EXT. SCHOOL PLAYGROUND - AFTERNOON

Later that afternoon at recess, Mac finds Molly standing by the soccer net, staring at some strange burn marks on the grass. She turns to him, her expression serious.

MOLLY

"My dad told me last night that it's happening. I can show you."

Mac hesitates but then nods.

MAC

"Okay, but I need to come over to your house now."

Molly's eyes light up as she leads him away.

3. INT. MOLLY'S HOUSE - LIVING ROOM - AFTERNOON

The crew—Molly, Mac, and a few other kids—gather around a computer. They stand over a software editor, DaVinci Resolve, going frame by frame through footage, scanning for any sign of eyes or other mysterious figures.

4. EXT. MAC'S HOUSE - EVENING

That evening, Mac returns home to find Dallas outside with a fully functional weather station, his hair blowing gently in the breeze from the Long Island Sound. Dallas is adjusting the equipment, completely absorbed in the task.

5. INT. MOLLY'S HOUSE - EVENING

Molly sits cross-legged on the floor, reading aloud from an old book. The room is dimly lit, and the atmosphere is heavy with suspense.

MOLLY

"The crossover between worlds has been happening for 500 years. In this modern time, we've forgotten. It will last until the creatures get what they want—what they were promised as a sacrifice."

Mac frowns, skeptical.

MAC

"That all sounds ridiculous."

MOLLY

"That's why we leave the beast—to appease the offering. They are no angels. In certain days, the Lord has allowed certain creatures to roam freely on Earth. Some we call dragons, others dinosaurs, but there are certain frequencies—echoes—that we can hear. It's like turning on a radio when you have the radio going."

MAC

curious

"Who wrote that?"

MOLLY

"My father, 20 years ago. But he doesn't talk much now."

MAC

"My dad doesn't talk much either."

6. INT. SUNDAY SCHOOL - AFTERNOON

Mac looks around and notices that some of his classmates are also his Sunday School classmates. The Youth Pastor begins handing out papers on the topic of ancient Israelites and what we can learn from their mistaken ways of seeking atonement.

After the class, the Youth Pastor notices Mac sitting alone and goes over to console him.

YOUTH PASTOR

"Hey, Mac. You seem deep in thought."

MAC

hesitant, but curious

"Do you think there are creatures in other worlds? Molly says there are curses... and other worlds... and creatures."

The Youth Pastor, a young guy with a calm demeanor, different from the school teacher, thinks for a moment.

YOUTH PASTOR

"There are things out there, Mac. Life itself is supernatural. But no ancient stuff is necessary anymore. No sacrifice can atone for man now—that line has been drawn."

Mac nods, but his confusion only deepens.

7. EXT. MAC'S HOUSE - NIGHT

That night, Mac steps outside and sees Dallas grilling. The smoke from the grill rises and catches the light, casting eerie shadows. Mac looks beyond the borders of their property, his gaze fixated on the tall grass swaying in the breeze.

Dallas notices him staring and follows his gaze, looking at the tall grass as well.

8. INT. MAC'S HOUSE - LIVING ROOM - NIGHT

Later, Mac walks back inside to find Dallas staring at the TV. Dallas notices Mac and gets up. The two sit together by the TV, eating a nice grilled dinner. The conversation is minimal, but there's a shared understanding between them.

DALLAS

softly

"All of this... it's supernatural—the fact that we're even here."

Mac nods, still processing everything he's learned. The confusion lingers, but there's comfort in the quiet moment shared with his father.

9. EXT. MAC'S HOUSE - NIGHT

That night, as they prepare for bed, a strange sound echoes through the house. The wind begins to pick up, rattling the windows. Dallas looks out into the night, the tall grass swaying ominously.

10. EXT. MAC'S HOUSE - NIGHT

Dallas steps outside into the thunderstorm to make sure everything is secure. The wind howls around him as he checks the perimeter, a sense of unease settling in.

FADE OUT.

11. INT. MAC'S HOUSE - MORNING

The next morning, the storm has passed, but the air is still heavy with the remnants of the previous night's events.

Title: Friday #1

1. INT. DALLAS' CAR - MORNING

The local town is buzzing as Dallas drives Mac to school. The radio crackles with a weather report, discussing the upcoming hurricane.

RADIO ANNOUNCER

"Hurricanes are a natural phenomenon, part of a system we call weather..."

Cut to the classroom, where the TEACHER, now a local celebrity, beams with pride as he shows a diagram on the board of the entire coastal region.

TEACHER

"And here's how the thunderstorm, prompted by the sea, decides where to leave the burn marks."

The class listens, a mix of curiosity and concern on their faces. The town is preparing for the storm, and the school system debates whether to close as the Sea Festival hangs in the balance.

2. EXT. MAIN STREET - AFTERNOON

After school, the crew—Mac, Molly, Asher, and a few others—walk home and gather outside Vinny's Pizzeria on Broadway. They pool their money together to get pizza, but overhear some older folks at the deli on the corner talking about the burn marks they found at their house the night before.

OLDER MAN AT DELI

"It was like scratches, all over the place. Never seen anything like it."

Asher's younger brother complains about the garlic knots being discontinued, and Molly explains it's not cost-effective.

MOLLY

"They just can't afford it anymore."

The crew listens to young married folks discussing how they'll need to take off work and find a sitter as the storm approaches.

3. EXT. MAC'S BACKYARD - EVENING

Molly gathers the crew and shares her theory about the creature causing the burn marks.

MOLLY

"It's the creature. During the next thunderstorm—which is tomorrow night—I'm setting up another camera. But my dad's still upset about the last one getting ruined in the rain, so we'll have to do it in Mac's backyard."

MAC

concerned

"Your dad doesn't want you to do this anymore?"

MOLLY

"Yeah, after the last accident. But we need to find out the truth."

4. INT. MOLLY'S HOUSE - NIGHT

That night at Molly's, she explains to the crew her disdain for smart technology.

MOLLY

"Smart tech makes you dumb. Analog lets you manipulate nature; digital just manipulates you. Screw that."

The crew nods in agreement, though some look a bit puzzled by her intensity.

Act 2 PREP

5. EXT. MAC'S BACKYARD - NIGHT

The crew sets up outside a stump equidistant from the tall grass. They prepare to snap photos and then retreat inside. Dallas makes tea for the kids as they chat about the creatures and what they might be like.

DALLAS

setting down the tea

"Creatures probably would want some sort of scented meat."

Molly's eyes light up, and the crew, with Dallas' help, begins seasoning a whole piece of meat. They place it outside with a tiny candle next to it as the storm approaches.

6. INT. MAC'S HOUSE - MORNING

The next morning, Molly shows the crew a picture on her tablet. The image is shadowy and unclear, leaving the group unconvinced.

MOLLY

"I took this during the thunderstorm—using the automatic camera setting."

She flips through her grandfather's notes, explaining his encounters 50 years ago by the shore. Her father, now a nerdy accountant, has long abandoned the hope of proving these stories true, but Molly is determined.

MOLLY

"My grandfather spent his life trying to publish these notes. My dad... he's embarrassed by them. But I believe them."

The crew listens, some skeptical, others intrigued.

7. EXT. DALLAS' HOUSE - DAY

Later, an old man who lives next door to Dallas and Mac—a gruff guy who owns a wood-chopping business—walks over as Dallas takes out the garbage. They rarely connect, except in moments like this.

OLD MAN

"All sounds like a bunch of ludicrous nonsense if you ask me."

Dallas nods, but his mind seems elsewhere.

8. EXT. SEA FESTIVAL - NIGHT

The annual Sea Festival, a neighborhood block party, is in full swing. Despite the looming hurricane, the event is still on, though neighbors grumble about the likelihood of an evacuation.

NEIGHBOR

"They're probably gonna make us evacuate soon. But the festival... it's still five days away from the storm."

Dogs at the festival start acting strangely, barking and growling towards a single spot in the tall grass afar. The tension in the air is palpable.

9. INT. HARDWARE STORE - DAY

Mac visits the local deli to get paint thinner, but they're out. He heads to the hardware store, where an old-timer mentions something unusual.

OLD-TIMER

"Found something strange near the tall grass yesterday... just doesn't sit right with me."

Mac listens, intrigued, but unsure what to make of it. He leaves the store, feeling the weight of everything that's been happening around him.

FADE OUT.

Title: Saturday #2

ACT 3 - BIG ENCOUNTERS

1. INT. MAC'S LIVING ROOM - MORNING

The next morning, Mac turns on the TV and sees Molly's dad being interviewed by a local news reporter. He's distraught, talking about how all of his tomatoes have been destroyed.

MOLLY'S DAD

"It's like nothing I've ever seen.
All my tomatoes, just gone."

Suddenly, Molly jumps into frame, her face determined.

MOLLY

"I have proof! There are creatures out there, coming from the storm, and I'm going to prove it. The burn marks weren't caused by a thunderstorm!"

The reporter looks shocked, but Molly stands firm, her message broadcasted to the whole town.

2. EXT. COASTAL ROAD - DAY

Dallas and Mac drive along the coast, passing tall grass swaying in the wind. Over the radio, the mayor's voice crackles through, announcing a state of emergency.

RADIO ANNOUNCER

"Mayor Clenden has issued a state of emergency. A severe storm is approaching, and all residents are advised to stay indoors."

Mac looks out the window, eyes wide with excitement and fear. The crew, who have been planning to stake out the creature, are amazed that all this is happening at the same time.

3. EXT. TALL GRASS - LATE AFTERNOON

Later that day, Mac sees a disturbance in the tall grass—a slight flutter at first, then it intensifies. He catches a glimpse of dark, hollow eyes peering out from the swaying blades.

Mac freezes, his breath catching in his throat. Dallas, standing nearby, sees them too. Without a word, the two retreat back to the house, locking up and getting cozy with snacks as they watch the news. The TV warns residents to stay inside, reporting on a series of burn marks and animal deaths, hinting at an organized attack.

4. EXT. MAC'S BACKYARD - NIGHT

Through the window, Mac spots Molly outside. She's holding something—the bait. Determined, she heads toward the designated bait drop-off and takes cover in the fort the crew built.

Mac watches, his heart pounding, as she carefully places the bait and then retreats to the safety of the fort.

5. EXT. TALL GRASS - NIGHT

At the end of the night, the crew gathers at the fort, standing in awe as they leave an appropriate sacrifice for the creature. Suddenly, the tall grass comes alive with movement, and they see a vast array of creatures emerging—each one different, some friendly and large, others skinny and dominant.

The creatures begin to dance in a slow, melodic rhythm. The air becomes thick with a fusion of light, casting a blinding gradient glow on the kids. Mac peers through his fingertips, trying to see the creatures as they move back into the woods, settling in the shadows. The flower, their sacrifice, disappears into the tall grass.

6. EXT. TALL GRASS - NIGHT

Molly drops her flashlight, casting a beam that catches the shadows of the creatures. The light reveals humanoid shapes—old, slow, yet buoyant. They move in droves, as if a storm cloud is forming above them.

The shadows dance around the stump, mesmerizing the crew. Suddenly, all the shadows converge, withdrawing into a single point on the stump as if being sucked into a black hole. They pause for a moment before—boom—a spark ignites, sending a ripple of mist floating into the air. New stars appear in the sky, shimmering brightly.

The kids stare up in wonder, questioning if the stars had always been there or if they were newly revealed by the creatures.

7. EXT. TALL GRASS - NIGHT

Suddenly, a bright light emits from the creatures, beaming directly onto the fort. The entire world seems to slow into slow motion as the creatures approach, their focus on the flower. They move softly, almost reverently, and in a blink, the flower is gone.

Molly looks up at the sky, which appears to be shifting and breathing, the trees blending with the light rays. Everything seems alive, and off in the distance, darker figures—darker than the ones in front of them—dance and laugh, their eerie presence sending chills down the kids' spines.

FADE OUT.

Title: Epilogue - Time Moves On

1. EXT. SMALL COASTAL TOWN - DAY

Time moves on in the small coastal town. The summer heat fades, and the local papers now focus on the upcoming football season and plans for the winter snow. The town buzzes with the hum of everyday life, the recent strange events already becoming a distant memory.

2. EXT. TOWN SQUARE - DAY

As the days grow shorter, the leaves begin to change. Fall arrives, bringing with it a sense of normalcy. The town forgets about the creatures that once haunted the tall grass. Dallas and Mac find themselves more settled, fitting into the community with ease. They're no longer outsiders but part of the fabric of the town.

3. EXT. COASTLINE - AFTER THE HURRICANE - DAY

The hurricane that once threatened the town has passed, moving up the coast. It leaves behind a coastline littered with nautical compost—seaweed, driftwood, and remnants of the storm scattered along the shore.

4. EXT. TALL GRASS - DAY

Dallas and Mac take a long walk along the tall grass, the wind gently rustling the blades. They walk in silence, both reflecting on the strange summer that has passed. As they reach the edge of the grass, they stop and look out towards the horizon, where the sky meets the sea.

The world feels calm, the storm has passed, and the creatures have returned to their hidden world. Father and son stand together, looking forward to the future, whatever it may bring.

FADE OUT.

THE END.